

EuroWEPS

European Workshop in Empirical Political Science

Call for Papers: EuroWEPS IX

We are happy to announce EuroWEPS IX. EuroWEPS brings together political scientists across Europe to carefully engage with research that seeks to draw causal inferences. EuroWEPS is a read-in-advance workshop: all participants are expected to read all papers. We then engage in 45 minutes of an in-depth discussion of each paper in an inclusive, constructive atmosphere.

EuroWEPS IX will be held as an in-person event at the London School of Economics and Political Science, in London on Wednesday, 8 May 2024. We provide accommodation, and travel funding of up to 200 Euros - provided by a generous grant from the LSE Government Department.

Applications with papers or detailed pre-analysis plans should be submitted by 3 April via email to euroweps@gmail.com. Women, minorities, and 1st generation academics are especially encouraged to apply. We will notify successful applicants by 10 April. Researchers who present must be based in Europe. Non-presenters may also attend (without travel funding), but should register with us beforehand.

EuroWEPS IX Hosts:

Florian Foos

Mathias Poertner

Pavithra Suryanarayan

EuroWEPS Organizers:

Elias Dinas (European University Institute)

Florian Foos (London School of Economics and Political Science)

Anselm Hager (Humboldt University Berlin)

Alexandra Scacco (WZB Berlin Social Science Center)

Pavithra Suryanarayan (London School of Economics and Political Science)